2.2. Order placement / contractual relationship

Orders may be placed up to ten days before the required delivery date. One-hour time slots can be reserved for deliveries by coop@home's personal delivery service.

Orders are confirmed to the customer by email. No contractual relationship exists between the customer and Coop until this order confirmation has been issued. Coop may decide for any reason whatsoever not to accept an order and to refuse to confirm it.

2.4. Amending and cancelling orders

An order cannot be amended once it has been confirmed.

A confirmed order may be cancelled during Customer Service opening hours, up until 36 hours before delivery.

2.5. Incomplete order fulfillment coop@home's primary objective is to deliver all products ordered in the right quantity and to a high quality standard. In exceptional cases for various reasons, however, insufficient products may be available or it may not be possible to release a product.

If products are unavailable at the time of delivery, they are not delivered later and no substitute products are delivered. The actual quantity delivered is stated on the delivery note and on the invoice. The customer is not entitled to compensation, pecuniary or in kind, in respect to quantities delivered partially or not at all.

If an item is not delivered, despite being billed, the amount in question will be credited to the customer. No subsequent delivery will be made, and the customer is not entitled to claim compensation.

3. DELIVERY

3.1. Order delivery

Orders are delivered directly to the delivery address and recipient specified by the customer or are collected by the customer at the Drive-In or Pick-up location.

Deliveries are made either by coop@home's personal delivery service or by a delivery partner, depending on the nature of the order and the delivery location. Orders will be delivered to the front door of private residences (as far as accessible) and the reception desk of business customers. Mobile phone credit is delivered electronically.

3.2. Delivery times and adherence to delivery periods coop@home and our delivery partner make every effort to adhere to the delivery periods. However, all delivery times specified by coop@home are for guidance purposes only. If a delivery period is not complied with, the customer is not entitled to withdraw from the contract or to receive compensation. Should coop@home or its delivery partner not be able to deliver an order confirmed by coop@home, there is no obligation to carry out the delivery. The customer is not thereby entitled to compensation.

3.3. Delivery charges

The amount of the delivery fee depends on the delivery method, order value minus any coupons/discounts and order frequency. Minimum volumes may apply, depending on the products and the nature of the delivery.

Products ordered at the same time but dispatched by different means may incur multiple delivery charges. Shopping baskets containing products dispatched by different means are shown separately during the order process.

3.4. Delivery note and invoice

Delivery notes and invoices are sent electronically whenever possible.

3.5. Delivery in the customer's absence

For quality and security reasons, coop@home aims to hand the order over to the customer personally. When deliveries are made by our own drivers, the customer can specify where the order should be left if they are not at home. If deliveries are made by our partners, the order will be left outside the front door if the customer is not at home. For VinoLog deliveries, if the customer is not at home, they will receive a collection note.

If the customer chooses payment on delivery, however, they are obliged to be present at the agreed delivery time. If personal delivery and simultaneous payment is not possible, the order is taken back again. In such instances coop@home reserves the right to charge a flat compensation fee of CHF 50.

Once the order has been handed over or placed at the requested location, the benefits and risk, particularly the risk of theft, damage by third parties or environmental factors, are passed on to the customer.

Deliveries by our delivery partners to addresses with no home delivery are deposited at the location at which they place parcels for these types of addresses.

3.6. Empties

Empty PET bottles, coop@home cardboard boxes and old carrier bags can be returned to the coop@home driver or delivery partner, with the next delivery. PET bottles must be collected in a PET bag, which can be ordered free of charge. coop@home Paper bags/cardboard boxes should be bundled together using the free recycling tape. Alternatively, PET bottles, carrier bags and cardboard boxes can also be collected and returned separately in old paper bags.

Glass bottles with and without a deposit, tins and aluminium packaging must be disposed of by the customer at official collection points.

3.7. Cancellation of a delivery by coop@home

If, for reasons beyond Coop's control - such as an incorrect delivery address, the recipient's absence, lack of an access permit, bad weather or travel conditions, or similar, it should prove impossible or possible only with great difficulty, to carry out the delivery successfully, Coop is entitled to cancel the order. In this event, the customer is not entitled to compensation, pecuniary or in kind.

4. PRICES and PAYMENT

The products and prices are basically the same as those available in Coop stores. Discrepancies are possible, however, especially where special offers and product ranges are concerned.

4.1. Prices

All prices are quoted in Swiss francs, including VAT at the applicable rate. The prices charged are those displayed on the www.coopathome.ch website at the time of the order. Where items are charged by weight (fruit, meat, cheese, etc.), the basic price per unit applies. The quantity of such items delivered, and therefore the price charged, may differ slightly from the quantity originally ordered. For prepacked and price-labelled fresh produce, the applicable price is the one in force when the order is prepared.

4.2. Payment methods / creditworthiness

Various payment methods are available, depending on the products and the means of dispatch. Coop is entitled to decide at its own discretion which payment method to accept in each case.

The customer expressly authorizes coop@home to examine their creditworthiness by any means it considers appropriate, and, to this end, to pass on customer data to third parties if necessary.

If, at the time of order, the customer is in arrears with the payment of previous invoice amounts or has exceeded their personal credit limit, the option to pay "on receipt of invoice" is not available.

The option to pay "on receipt of invoice" is only available to legal entities following prior written application (Invoice request for companies or Invoice request for public-law institutions/institutions).

After delivery of the order, invoices are sent by email if possible, and otherwise mailed to the billing address specified by the customer or included directly with the order. Invoices are payable within 30 days without deductions or other discounts. Unauthorized deductions will be debited later. Failure to settle an invoice on time incurs a charge of CHF 20 plus default interest at a rate of 5% per annum.

If the customer's payment is late, Coop Cooperative is entitled to mandate a third party for the collection of outstanding payments and to assign its claims to third parties in Switzerland or abroad. In this case, all claims that are unpaid at that time will be assigned to a third party. The associated costs will be billed to the customer.

The payment methods available are displayed for selection when the order is finalized.

With credit card, PostFinance, TWINT, Powerpay and Masterpass payment methods, the amount reserved on the payment method will be increased if the order contains products whose price depends on the actual delivered weight. The value of the goods actually delivered as stated on the delivery note will be charged.

5. PRODUCT DECLARATION

5.1. Product information

We take care to update the product information published in the web shop regularly. In exceptional cases, the information may deviate from the details printed on the product packaging. In such an instance, the information on the packaging takes precedence.

Because recipes may change anytime, we recommend that you regularly consult the ingredients list and allergy-related information on the packaging.

5.2. Declarations of origin for fresh produce

If the origin of fresh produce delivered is not the same as the origin declared at the time of the order, or if its origin cannot be determined on receipt, the customer is entitled to request a refund to the value of the items concerned.

5.3. Bio Suisse

Coop follows the strict standards set by Bio Suisse. In rare cases – due to seasonal availability - individual products may be included which are grown on farms in the process of receiving their organic certification.

When ordering catering platters from the coop@home online shop, the customer selects a store from which to collect the catering products. If Coop is unable to provide the products for collection at the agreed time, the customer may cancel the order when contacted by Coop. The customer is not entitled to make any further claims.

The customer may not choose a different store from which to collect the products once an order has been placed. If the customer is unable to collect the products at the agreed time, the store in question must be notified by telephone. The chosen collection date is binding. The usual opening hours of the chosen store apply for product collection. If a product is not collected on the agreed date, coop@home has the right to cancel the order and may charge a compensation fee of CHF 100 for the inconvenience caused. The customer undertakes to examine the products immediately upon collection to ensure that the products are correct, complete and undamaged. The customer must report any issues with the collected products to the meat or fish counter in the store without delay.

coop@home has the right to change their prices at any time. The prices charged are those displayed on the website www.coopathome.ch at the time of order. The "half lobster" product is a fresh product that varies in weight. When the customer places an order, an average price with an average weight will be displayed in their shopping basket. The quantity actually delivered, and therefore the price charged for such products, may differ slightly on the invoice compared to the original order.

Payment is due when the products are collected from the store. The payment methods accepted at the store in question apply. Coop may refuse to accept certain payment methods as a general rule or for individual customers without specifying the reason. Coop has the right to charge fees for certain payment methods. coop@home vouchers cannot be used for catering orders.

Catering products ordered from coop@home are freshly prepared daily and the cold chain is maintained at all times. It is therefore not possible to return any products. Should the customer identify any issues with the quality of the products, they can contact Coop's customer service or the collection store's customer service and submit a complaint.
